ST. LOUIS APPELLATE/COURT'S FIRST DECISIONS FOR TERM.

od for Maintenance of Their Children Denied. 9t. Louis Court of Appeals yester-handed down its first batch of de-action of the Circuit Court denyin he claim of Mrs. Rose B. Dixon against her former husband, Henry M. Dixon, for 1802, for the maintenance and educa-ion of their four children, was sustained. The Dixons were married twice and di-verced twice. She obtained the first di-verce and he the second. They formerly lived in Vernon County, Missouri, where owned a farm of eighty acres. She in-serited property from her father, which he sold for $1,200, and owned an inter-after having been divorced and remar-ted she left her husband in 1832 and went of Illinois, where her mother lived. He followed and tried to induce her to return rith him or go to Kansas, but she re-used, it is stated. He said he could not take a living in Illinois and returned to lissouri and obtained a divorce without her knowledge. She sued for divorce in linois after a divorce had been granted to him.

The couple made a settlement in October, 185, and her suit was dismissed. Under the settlement their property interests were separated and he gave her $1.00, 5he claimed that the maintenance of the children was not included in the settlement, and claimed it was.

Judge Reyburn wrote the opinion for the Appellate Court. Associate Judge Goode concurred, but Presiding Judge Bland dissented, hbiding that she (Mrs. Dixon) should have been allowed $55, the amount of her claim that was not barred by the attaite of limitations.

a week ago that she was now prepared to receive holy communion.

Miss Sullivan, who is about II years old, and smail for her age, has been in the Model School of the Educational building at the Wold's Pair for several weeks. Her religious teaching was separate and distinct from her secular training. She was sent to the Sisters of St. Joseph to receive religious training about the middle of August. Although her Colorado tutors had surven to make her understand the meaning of religious truths, little or no headway had been made.

"As the teacher is, so the child will be," sald one of the sisters of the institution where the girl made her first communion yesterday. "Miss Sullivan had been brought up largely in a State school, and this made the case extremely difficult. She had excellent parents, however, and really seemed to appreciate the truths which we have been trying to incuicate, so that we believed that the girl was warfanted in receiving the sacraments."

Miss Sullivan, with her tutor and relative, will start for Colorado to-day or to-morrow, as the girl has no further object in staying in St. Louis. She probably will return to the Beaf and Dumb School at Colorado Springs.

It was a strange scene yesterday at the Helen Keller exercises to see this girl, between her tutor and her sister-in-law, "listening" to the touching speech of the wonderfol girl on the platform. Miss Bullivan had been told of the remarkable driften the East, who had accomplished so much, and as her companions would touch her hands and mouth her face would light up and smile. She seemed to comprehend in the strange way of the deaf-mutes the meaning of the words which struck everyone's ears but her own.

FOLK UNBOUNDED

ENTHUSIASM FOR

Fight on Butler and St. Louis Republican Ticket Will Help Democratic Cause in Counties.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Clarence, Mo., Oct. 18 .- Local Democrats declare that Folk and the ticket will do better than the normal 4,000 majority in Monroe County, and than the 1,500 The entire vote will be polled, and of it a large percentage of Republic an ballots will go to Mr. Folk. In such friendly territory the welcome accorded the Democratic nominees at to-day's stops, easily can be imagined. At Monroe City this morning, and at Clarence, in the western end of Shelby County, this afternoon, splendid audience had assembled. Specially interesting and yet not far from typical, was the greeting received by Folk after his Monroe City speech, from Madison Payne, one the oldest Democrats of Marion 'I am glad to shake you by the hand,' "I am glad to shake you by the hand," said the old farmer, in trembling voice. That was all he said. It remained for S. J. Harrison, who knows the old man well, to complete his story. He lives on the north line of Marion, thirty miles from Monroe County. He had goten up at 3 in the morning, harnessed his team, driven for six long hours, that he might meet Mr. Folk, and this sterling farmer has turned his eighty-fourth year.

Daily in this campaign incidents occur showing the clese attention now paid by the farming element to political developments. The farmer now talks of the St. Louis city situation with almost the information of a city man. The two tickets are the subject of this close analysis.

Unquestionable the fight on Butler, led by Hawes and the domination of the Republican City Convention by the old Ziegenhein machine has helped the Democratic State ticket in the counties.

"I see that they have some of them Ziegenhein mu up again in St. Louis."

craic State ticket in the counties.

"I see that they have some of them Ziegenhein men up again in St. Louis," one farmer said to-day.

"It looks mighty clear to me where old Ed Butler is in that mess, and say, I notice that Walbridge ain't saying anything about his city ticket. It makes me wonder whether it's too bad for him to swallow."

AUDIENCE ATTENTIVE. The audience to-day were particularly attentive. They followed every argument advanced, exhibiting the serious interest which has characterized Folk meetings in advanced, exhibiting the serious interest which has characterized Folk meetings in all parts of Missouri Mr. Folk touched upon that question which Republicans are now advancing as the paramount issues. His words had marked effect.

"The candidate of the Republican machine," Mr. Folk said, "says he wants an honest hallot. Every good citizen of all parties wants an honest ballot, and I will gladly join any move to secure an absolutely honest ballot. That is what the Democratic party is contending for, and is particularly interested in securing. But its not this Republican cry advanced for the purpose of obscuring the main issue in this campaign?"

"Why is it that the Republican machine candidates have become so silent on the boodiers. Do they deny that boodle is now an issue. Will they unite with me in repudiating the support of corruptionists? It does seem that every good citizen should be willing to 60 this. Why is it that the dares not do it? Is it because they fear to allenate the votes of boodlers?

"Is this crisis of Missouri's history any candidate on any ticket, who truckles to boodler votes, will have the votes of patriotic citizens to reckon with."

Congressman James T. Lloyd, who represents these counties, and who will be reelected by an increased majority, joined Mr. Folk & Hannibal. He did not stop at Monroe City, but participated in the afternoon meeting at Clarence.

Mr. Folk & Hannibal. He did not stop at Monree City, but participated in the afternoon meeting at Clarence.

Folk spoke at the former place at 19:39 a.m. About 2,599 persons were there.

The attendance was remarkable, in view of several facts. The time of the meeting had been hurriedly changed with only two days warning, from afternoon to morning. Many reached town too late on this account. Moreover, on these fire days the farmer has his corn to cut and his spring wheat to sow. He has much to do, and it is a surong attraction which draws him from his work.

Unusual conditions handkcapped the speakers at Clarence. The stand was erected near the railroad station. Of course, a freight train came along and proceeded to do switching, and the sound of humping cars is rather more than an orator or better voice than Folk would care to compete with.

Only Death Can Obliterate Pleasant Memories of Fair.

CITY SITUATION APPRECIATED. ALASKANS OBSERVE THEIR DAY

Transfer of Territory Commemorated by Unveiling of Bust of William H. Seward. at the Exposition.

In his speech at the celebration of Alaska Day at the World's Fair yesterday President Francis volced his regret that only forty days of the Exposition remains "I am asked many times a day," said President Francis, "if I am not tired of the World's Fair and will be glad when it is over. My greatest regret is that there are only forty more days of the Exposition. My pleasant memories of the Fair, the pleasant people I have met and the pleasant experiences I have had in con-nection with the Fair always will remain with me, and will expire only with life

President Francis's remarks were roundly applauded by the large audience that filled the reception rooms and the halls and corridors of the Alaska building. The celebration commemorated Alaska Day at the Fair, and the thirty-seventh

Day at the Fair, and the thirty-seventh anniversary of the transfer of Alaska to the United States by Russia.

The feature of the exercises was the unveiling of a marble bust of William H. Seward, Secretary of State at the time of the purchase of Alaska. The statue is the work of C. V. Ives of New York. It was presented to the Territory of Alaska by a lifelong friend of Secretary Seward, Francis Loring of New York City. Mr. Loring was unable to be present, and the bust was unveiled by Governor John G. Brady and accepted by him in the name of the people of Alaska. George Lovell Rousseau, now a resident of St. Louis, who hoisted the American flag at thee eremonies of the transfer in 1861, was one of the most interesting of the many distinguished guests at the exercises.

clines were attributed to Mr. Vanderlip's remarks.

Speculative Wall street was rather at a loss to reconcile some of Mr. Vanderlip's statements to-day. They did not, apparently, think it consistent for a man to speak of the wonderful development of the country, and express confidence of its continuance to a marked degree, with such remarks as that "prices have shown most substantial recovery—a recovery certainly

ADMIT COLORADO STRIKE IS ENDED

Miners. Union Officers Recognize Futility of Further Hostility.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Trinidad, Colo., Oct. 18.-It is admitted by officers of the local coal miners' union that the strike which began nearly a year ago is at an end. The Executive Committee of District 15, United Mine Workers of America, met at Pueblo a few days ago and considered the situation in secret the country, and express continuance to a marked degree, with such remarks as that "prices have shown most substantial recovery—a recovery certainly in advance of what would be warranted by present actual conditions."

That, according to Wall street speculators, is not the way to bull stocks.

Other remarks, too, which somewhat chilled Wall street's enthusiasm, were that "encouragement of a wild speculative boom at the time when improvement is justified more by hopes and possibilities than by immediate active conditions, might set the whole period of recovery back a month, six months or a year."

Still, Mr. Vanderlip's references to general business were highly encouraging, and the conclusion of his remarks were: "I believe that the conditions are again favorable to a return of prosperity. I believe it is time for optimism." The strike was not formally declared off, but following the meeting the miners on strike were informed that they could accept the work without any danger of being called upon to turn in their union cards. cards.

The various fuel companies worked together to break the strike, which was confined to the Scuthern Colorado field, although District 15 includes Concrade, Utah and Wyoning. Though the task was expensive, the companies succeeded in attaining the normal production several months ago, since which time the ultimate failure of the strike has been apparent to the public.

GENERAL TENOR OF ADDRESS ENCOURAGES WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 18.—The address delivered before the Illinois Bankers' Association in St. Louis to-day by Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the National City Bank of New York, is regarded here as having optimistic views on the indus-trial and financial situation, tempered by cautionary warnings against overtrading

Wall street for some days has mani-Wall street for some days has manifested much interest and curiosity over the address, news of the deliverance having become known in advance. The interest was natural, partly because of the association of Mr. Vanderlip with the Standard Oil party whose views, it was held, he would publicly voice, and partly because of the remarkable accuracy with which he summed up the financial and commercial situation two years ago in an address delivered at Wilmington, N. C.
